Dedication

To the ones who feel forgotten. To the broken, the weary, and the wounded. May these pages serve as a gentle reminder: God still sees you, still loves you, and still calls you worthy.

This book is for you.

Acknowledgements

I am deeply grateful to GOD for His unwavering faithfulness through every trial and triumph. To my son, Kenneth, my daughter, Dezanae, and my grandsons, Kendrick, Zion, and Zahir Rich—each of you holds a special place in my heart. Your love, strength, and presence have been a constant source of inspiration and joy.

To my family, friends, mentors, and readers, thank you for your steady love, encouragement, and prayers. Your belief in me gave me strength when I felt I had none.

To my readers, thank you for opening your hearts to my story. It is my prayer that these pages inspire you, uplift you, and remind you that you are never alone. Together, we walk this journey—broken yet beautifully used by God.

"He has made everything beautiful in its time..." - Ecclesiastes 3:11

Introduction

When God Meets the Broken

There were days when I didn't think I would survive - not because I lacked the will to live, but because everything around me, and within me, felt shattered. My heart was tired. My soul was weary. Life felt like a puzzle I no longer had the pieces to complete.

But God...

He stepped into the fragments of my life with quiet power and divine purpose. He saw what I couldn't - beauty in the brokenness, purpose in the pain, and destiny in the dust. Where I saw ruin, God saw a story. Where I felt unworthy, He called me chosen.

This is not a book about perfection. It is not a celebration of having it all together. This is a testimony - raw, honest, and drenched in grace. It's about being wounded and still walking, crushed and still called. It's about how God takes the things we want to hide and turns them into the very platform He uses to heal others.

I don't write these words as someone who has arrived. I'm still healing. Still learning. Still saying yes - daily - to the God who never stopped believing in me. But what I now know deep in my soul is this: God delights in using broken people to carry out beautiful assignments.
